> My son and I got our open water certifications from a different company a few years ago, and my son hadn't been able to put it to use yet, so we signed him up with Colorado Scuba Diving Academy for a SCUBA refresher. I sat in with him during the classroom portion, and was amazed at how much I learned! I feel like I got more out of his refresher course with Kent and Samuel than I did from my original cert. Making better, safer divers is much more important to Samuel and Kent than merely passing people off on their certifications, or just pushing students to purchase their gear from them. Their passion for diving is very clear in every class and every discussion with them. I cannot recommend them highly enough! My wife and daughter are working with them on their open water certifications, and my son and I are going for some more certifications as well. They are incredibly patient and accommodating.
